ANNUAL ADDRESS TO GRADU-ATING CLASS DELIVERED BY PRES. HADLEY.

Woolsey Hall Filled With Graduating Classes and Their Friends Address on the Characteristics of the Rightcousness of the Scribes and Pharisees -The Broader View of Christian Duty as Applied to the College Man-His Duty to the Future.

Yale was delivered yesterday morning by President Hadley in Woolsey hall-The galleries, parquette and extreme rear of the hall were filled with the relatives and friends of the candidates for degrees. On the stage, about the keyboard of the Newberry organ. was seated the regular college choir, the town for commencement.

Just before 10:30 o'clock Prof. Harry Jepson began the organ prelude, and were followed by those who are candidates for post-graduate hon-ors, among them being a few co-eds-The dark gowns made a pleasing appearance in the white hall, here and there being relieved by the colored bands of those already having higher

After all had entered the door at the side of th stage was opened and President Hadley, with the deans and directors of the various departments proceeded to their seats along the front of the platform.

The order of the service was as fol-

President Hadley spoke ed; but the nation would preserve its and other ambassadors during the last right to the students and made every dignity by giving to the world proof few days. word tell. The address follows:

"Except your righteousness shall exoeed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharistes, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven."

What was the essential characteristic of the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees?

It was this: The scribes and Pharisees made morality, and even religion, matter of rules and conventions They looked for nothing higher and cared for nothing better than a system of observances which they had inherited from their fathers. This system was not in itself a bad one. The Pharisees had a more enlightened code of conduct than any of their contemporaries or than most of the peoples who have come after them. This code inculcated in a high degree the virtues of cleanliness and religious observance and of obedience to public and private law. It laid some emphasis on the more fundamental virtues of justice and reasonableness. It was based on a philosophy in which God and a future life were essential articles of faith. Doubtless there were among the ranks of the Pharisses many hypocrites, who used the forms of religion and of morality as a cloak for their vices and sins; but there is no reason to believe that the proportion of such men was greater than has always existed in any society where righteousness has been sufficiently valued to make it worth while to put counterfelts into circulation.

Why, then, does devotion to a good system of rules and observances like that of the Pharisees lead its followers

Partly because the practice of relying upon rules and conventions, however good, lessens a man's power of meeting the unforeseen emergencies and crises of life. Next to the boy! who comes to college with bad habits, the one who is in most danger is he who has had such superlatively good, habits that an infraction of a single one of them breaks down the barrier upon which he has relied, and leaves him without a system of inner de fenses. There are two kinds of degeneracy; one which comes from too little reliance upon law, another which comes from too much. The man whom we commonly call a degenerate suffers Buelow received M. GERMANY'S REPLY.

Speculation in Paris Regarding Its Probable Purport.

Paris, June 25.-Speculation is rife regarding the probable purport of Germany's reply to the French note concerning the proposed international conference over Moroccan affairs, which reply has not yet been received. The statement that Germany would refrain from replying before further verbal explanations took place between Premier Rouvier and Prince Radolin, the German ambassador, is not regarded seriously in well informed circles where it is thought probable that an interview will not take place before Wednesday. when the reply from Berlin may reach Paris, but the officials are wihtuot def-

This, however, is regarded as a surmise. Meanwhile public anxiety relative to eventualities, though somewhat abated is still intense. The press continues to advise patience and confidence in the efforts of the French government to arrive at a pacific settlement.

It is pointed out that the negotiations have heretofore been conducted in a spirit of courtesy and that appearances show that everything is being done by both sides to reach an amicable arrangement.

St. Petersburg, June 26-12:51 a. m. Negotiations for the peace conference have taken an important step forward, a proposition for the date of the meeting of the plenipotentiaries at Washington having been submitted to Russia and being now under consideration. The exact date proposed has not been ascertained, but there is reason to suppose that it is some time during the first week or ten days of August, which is about the earliest period in which the Japanese representatives can be exreasonable time for the acceptance of the proposal and the interchange of the nominations of plenipotentiaries.

The emperor's answer is not expected a day or two, as the diplomatic mills of Russia grind slowly and the foreign office, as one of the secretaries put it, "Is not used to American hustling methods," but it is thought that the date will be satisfactory, as it will give ample time for M. Washington, June 25 .- By direction of President Roosevelt, action has been taken by the administration which will not only facilitate the landing in this country of Chinese of the exempt classes, but also will eliminate from the immigration bureau such administrative features as have been the subject of criticism of Chinese. It is the declarated intention of the president to see that Chinese merchants, travelers, students and others of the exempt classes shall have the same courtesy shown them by officers of the immi gration bureau as is accorded to citi zens of the most favored nation.

Represenations have been made to the president that, in view of alleged harsh treatment to many Chinese seeking aslanding in the United States, the commercial guilds of China have American manufactures. sentations, backed by the authority of the American Asiatic society and commercial bodies throughout the country. induced the president to make an investigation of the situation with a view to remedying the evils complained of, of they were found to exist. The subject was discussed thoroughly by the cabinet, and the president took it up personally with Secretary Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor, who has supervision of the immigra tion bureau. As a result of the inquiry orders have been issued to the diplomatic and consular representatives of the United States in China by the president himself that they must look closely to the performance of their duties under the exclusion law, and see to it that members of the exempt classes coming to this country are provided with proper certificates. These certificates will be accepted at any port of the United States, a ndwill guarantee the bearer against any harsh or discourteous treatment. Such treatment, indeed, will be the cause of the instant dismissal of the offending official, whoever he may be. In addition to the president's orders, Secretary Metcalf has issued instructions to the immigration officers which, it is believed, will remedy the difficulty heretofore complained of by the Chinese government and individuals. It is anticipated that the prompt action taken by this government to meet the obfections made by the Chinese will eliminate the possibility of serious trade difficulties between China and the manufacturers of this country.
